Natural Disaster Policy If an Act of God/terrorism/Community Disaster occurs:

- Muck Run Race directors will make decisions on altering the race course, postponing the race start time or canceling the race altogether.
- Decisions will be made for racer safety.
- The course is mainly on National Forest land and the US Forestry Service reserves the right to cancel a race if they feel the land will be permanently damaged by having hundreds of runners run on a course that has recently experienced a natural disaster (example: heavy rains).
- Athletes in that race will have first right to sign up for that event the next year.
- Financial: Silver Birch Ranch and the Muck Run staff cannot accept the risk of a disaster for everyone.

Each athlete needs to accept the risk of his or her entry fee. There will be NO REFUNDS or free entries to other future races.
